Tale football team today. Instead of he contemplated scrimmage between the contemplated scrimmage between the varsity and scrubs, Coach Tad Jones ordered the squad to the baseball cage, where an hour's signal drill was held, followed by "breaking through" practice for the line men.

The varsity lined up as follows:

Tackle Taft and Guard Galt of the first team, who have been injured, practiced with the second eleven. There is still some doubt whether they will be able to start against Princeton on Saturday. Braden, the drop kick-ing fullback, has a slight injury and he will be saved as much as possible in this week's practice.

Brown Backfield Star Did Great Work

Aginst Yale.

Among the backfield stars of this or any other season must be mentioned the name of Pollard, the man who does a blackface turn for Brown university. The unbleached American ran over, under and around the Yale tacklers last Saturday afternoon. He displayed such skill in running back kicks, recovering fumbles and in making squirming, dodging runs through the enemy's defense that the crowd cheered him frequently. When he was taken out in the last period in order to save him for the Harvard contest next Saturday, the audience gave him a remarkable ovation, the men rushed to shake his hand. When the final whistle blew the triumphant Brown rooters carried Pollard on their shoulders as the first exhibit in the parade around the gridiron.

It was Pollard who prevented Yale from getting a touchdown in the first half. The Brown kicker was so slow in getting the ball away that the effort was blocked. The quick think ing negro picked up the ball behin his own line and douged out to the ten yard mark before he was downed.

scheduled for settlement during the sessions here.

The conference of representatives of Class B leagues resulted in the announcement that a formal request would be made for representation on the national commission of the minor leagues' organization. The minor leagues, it was contended, have more need of representation on the national commission than the Baseball Players Fraternity.

LeGore of Yale is suffering from overwork, Baldrige from a broken rib and Braden from a muscle bruise received Saturday. It has been stated that all will be able to play in the Princeton game Saturday. Galt will return to right guard. Taft and Jacques are back in the lineup, playing for the first time in two weeks. Callaban was placed at center. Hutchinson did not report, but he, Jacques and Braden are possibilities for fullback. Carey was given left halfback, but the choice between him, Waite and Newlile for this position will not be definitely made till late in the week. Monday's practice was held in a drizzels. Both Teams Weakened,

Some Yale enthusiasts are inclined to make capital out of the fact that injuries kept Bingham, Baldridge and Sheldon out of the game. There is no denying that the Elis could put a better team on the field with these three stars available, but it is unfair to Brown to consider only one side of the story. The Providence eleven suffered in the same way. The loss of Ward, Conroy and Brace has taken no little strength from Brown, and Josh Weeke, who had been on the hospital list since the Rutgers game is far from being at the Rutgers game is far from being at his best. It is safe to assume that Brown, with all its strength available, Brown, with all its strength available, is a better team than Yale under similar conditions. Certainly the pupils of Ed Robinson were several degrees better on Saturday. Their tackling was poor at times and the passing was not of the best, but even these faults were not enough to offset the poor playing of Yale. Brown was better conditioned and played a more versatile brand of football. tile brand of football,

Out for Season.

Denial is made of the report that Walter McGrath and Kirkpatrick, two of the leading candidates for tackle and guard when the season opened, would be able to get back into the lineup this season. At had been rumored that the faculty might declare them eligible the coming week, but it was stated authoritatively that there was no possibility of their removing their scholarship disqualifications be-fore the close of the present season Both would probably get first string places on the eleven at once should they be reinstated by the faculty.

It has been pointed out that the Yale eleven has come to the period of its so-called championship games, its matches with Princeton and Harvard, without being compelled to disclose any of the complicated formations or trump plays which it has learned in secret practice to rely upon as its best scoring moves Yet it has defeated every eleven with the exercises of every eleven with the exception of Brown.
